BEVERLY HOSPITAL

SCRAP BOOKS

I began keeping a scrapbook of newspaper clippings, etc. relating to the Beverly Hospital practically from the time I came to the hospital to work, but it was not until the anniversary of Dr. Johnson's fifty years' association with the Beverly Hospital, (and we were trying to think of something for him), that we thought of a Memoir Book.

It was then that we earnestly began some research and obtained much valuable information about the early years of the hospital. Many letters were written and we were able to locate almost all living former interns and residents, graduate nurses, and others who had been connected with Beverly Hospital. The response was more than we had hoped for. We were given autographed pictures, testimonial letters, old class pictures, old newspaper clippings, old annual reports, etc. from as far away as California. We would get a clue and follow it up to get more information.

Daniel Dulany Addison, honorary degree D.D., the first president of Beverly Hospital, died in 1936, but I visited his wife and daughter living in Brookline and was given old reports and other literature relating to the hospital which were found in Mr. Addison's desk. Misses Elizabeth and Laura Woodberry also were able to find information about the old hospital in the old papers of their father, Charles Woodberry, second president of Beverly Hospital. (Elizabeth Woodberry was a former teacher of mine).

I spent many pleasant hours with some of the older nurses, Miss Theodosia Hines and Mrs. Sara Peaslee, of the first class to graduate from Beverly Hospital in 1895, Miss Helen Ramage, Mrs. Albert Hood, Mrs. Chester Enman, Mrs. Howard Hinman, Mrs. E. Campbell, Mrs. Kenneth Gillies are but a few of those who gave of their treasures. Miss Ramage was bed-ridden and I used to take Mrs. Peaslee to visit her. It was wonderful just to listen to their reminiscing.

We had enough material for Dr. Johnson's Memoir Book and we have a collection of nine books for the hospital and we are still collecting!

The hospital on Central St. was opened one year ago. During the year it has received 89 patients, 62 female, 27 male. The largest number in hospital at any one time was 17: smallest number 7. Forty five were surgical cases: forty four medical. There were 48 paying patients, from whom nearly $1800 was received for board, nursing and professional attendance: there were 41 entirely free patients, 28 of whom were residents of Beverly: the latter entirely free patients received board for 194 weeks 4 days. Three infants were born in the hospital during the year. The following Beverly physicians have had patients in the house since it was opened. — Drs. Cowles, Hayes, Stickney and Swan; ~~these patients were under their personal~~ ~~care~~ number of patients treated by them during the year 23.

Following are the deaths, with the cause of each: Chronic Enteritis, one: Typhoid Fever, one: Consumption, two: Strangulated Hernia, one: Peritonitis, one: Pelvic Abscess, with perforation of bowel, one: Fracture of Skull, one: Fracture of Spine, one. The death rate would have been lower if hopeless or incurable cases had been refused admission.

The amount of money received from paying patients during the year, together with the sum netted from the fair held in the summer, the theatrical entertainment given in the winter, and the donations and subscriptions from interested friends has been nearly, but not quite, enough to meet expenses. I omit giving detailed statements of receipts and expenditures, as being, in the first place, uncalled for in this brief resume of the work of the hospital, and in the second place, no more convincing, than my simple statement to the contrary, to those who believe I am using the hospital opportunities for the money I can make out of it.

If any persons who have entrusted me with money & keep carry on the work desire to know in detail what has been done financially I shall be happy to exhibit the proofs of my inability to have enriched myself by my administration of the hospital. The many friends of the Matron

Miss Brown will be sorry to learn that a serious illness has made necessary a prolonged rest from hospital work and that she has returned to England.
 Those who have been brought in contact with her during the three years she has acted as matron in the Cabot Street and Central Street hospitals, whether patients, nurses or physicians know how close to her heart the hospital was, how self-sacrificing her zeal for its welfare, and how high was her ideal of the nurse profession.
 It is not exaggeration to say that she won the love as well as the respect of all her patients for that is what is universally expressed. Those whom she has cheered in their hours of sickness will follow her over the seas with fervent hope that she may quickly and permanently recover health and strength.

The present matron Miss McDonald comes from the New England Hospital and is proving daily that no mistake has been made in choosing her for the position she fills so satisfactorily. Hearty thanks are due to the nurses who have performed their duties cheerfully and faithfully; and also to the numerous friends of the hospital who have helped, by cheering words, willing hands and open purses, to make the first year a success. That it has been a success there is now no doubt among those who have known most about the work it has done; and there is no question that it is needed in our community; but I feel that its field of usefulness will be larger if in the future it is carried on as a corporate institution under the administration of trustees. To this end I propose to transfer the estate to a corporation, if assurance shall presently be forthcoming that the necessary money will be raised to maintain it for the coming year. I say for the coming year, because I am confident that by the end of that time the citizens of Beverly will be glad to support a charity in which they will have a more intimate personal interest than they can feel while it is under a one man administration.

The real estate, hospital building and equipment, are easily worth $8000: there is a mortgage on the real estate of $3500. I will surround the title deeds to a corporation upon that body agreeing to assume the mortgage obligations and the outstanding bills that may remain unpaid at time of transfer: these bills possibly may amount to $500, not more. This transfer of the property is subject to a few conditions: first, the institution shall be called The Beverly Hospital: second, it always shall be used for hospital purposes, either as the permanent location of the hospital, or by its sale, for a possible more suitable site in the future; third, the staff of physicians shall be members of the Massachusetts Medical Society residing in Beverly; fourth, the staff shall be allowed to attend, ~~upon~~<sup>at</sup> their usual charges, private patients who shall wish to avail themselves of the hospital privileges, such patients to pay for board and nursing: fifth, preference being given to the poor of Beverly, the privileges of the hospital shall be allowed, as now, to any poor person whom the staff may judge a suitable subject for admission.

Beverly perhaps does not know that this hospital could not have been carried on but for the generous help given by those who spend only their summers here:
knowing it, the people of our town will hardly fail to be glad to join hands with them now in supporting the institution in its new phase.
Having seen how much good the hospital has done so far, and it being apparent that I shall have no pecuniary interest in it in the future, I feel that I have a right to urge its claims upon my fellow citizens.

The example of other large towns, ~~is worth~~ in their support of local hospitals, is worthy of consideration: take that of Waltham, for instance: a hospital started there as a private gynecological one, as was the case with the Beverly Hospital, has grown in a very few ~~years~~ years into a very successful general hospital, with finely equipped buildings upon a beautiful site, & a well managed training school for nurses, all secured to future usefulness and prosperity by the generous friends who feel that no money is so well invested as that which provides freely and adequately for the relief of the sick, the suffering and the poor.

Again, there is Lawrence, which has a most excellent hospital and a home for children, the result of the untiring labors of a band of women who started with a capital of faith, enthusiasm and determination, and have now as their reward, in addition to the hospital

Want, an endowment fund of nearly $30,000. Beverly, with its 12000 inhabitants needs and will gladly support a hospital that will afford the town as much satisfaction and pride as Lawrence, Waltham, Quincy, Newton, Salem, feel in theirs; and if signs do not fail, the time is come for the realization of the hopes of those who have looked upon the present Beverly hospital as the nucleus of that well endowed, thoroughly equipped institu-tion which shall command the hearty support and loyal affection of the whole community. We shall have in the future as we have had in the past the willing hands of those who worked last summer for the fair and this winter for the theatrical entertainment; and we shall have the same generous friends who have given of their wealth to keep what hitherto has been an experiment in the hands of one whose most grateful appreciation of such generosity and confidence it is perhaps not improper to acknowledge publicly.

Under the proposed new management the hospital, with its accommodations for twenty patients, will need at least $5000 for its maintenance the coming year: its paying patients ought to bring at least $1500, but it should not be difficult to raise the entire $5000 right here in town if every one who reads this appeal will contribute something: surely there are humane enthusiasts who can spare twenty dollars each, two hundred who will not feel the loss of ten dollars apiece, and five hundred who will be proud to feel that their modest two dollar subscriptions give them a personal interest in the success of the hospital. Besides the subscriptions to guarantee the support for one year, it would be very pleasant to have large donations from friends who believe that an endowment fund is a useful attachment to a hospital.

 With the confident expectation that the response to this appeal will be quick, hearty and liberal I will only say further that subscriptions and pledges will be acknowledged promptly by the gentlemen whose endorsement below will justify public confidence in the scheme.
 Immediately after the pledging of the sum deemed necessary to maintain the hospital one year a meeting will be called for the formation of a corporation and the choosing of trustees for the government and administration of the institution.

We have been familiar with the organization and management of the Public Hospital, hitherto in charge of Dr. S.W. Torrey, and have known of the very considerable cost to him, both in time and money, of the experiment. It has certainly proved to be a great success.

In a town of so large a population as Beverly, the need of such a hospital is likely to be a constantly increasing one, and now that Dr. Torrey proposes to place the management in the hands of a Corporation to be organized for that purpose, we take pleasure in commending it to the cordial interest and generous support of all who feel an interest in the town.

BEVERLY HOSPITAL

"Dr. Samuel William Torrey was a pioneer in recognizing that surgical operations could not be performed or serious diseases be adequately treated in the average home and as there was no hospital in Beverly, in 1888 he established in a small private house, on Union Street and Cabot Street corner, a hospital of six beds for the treatment of surgical cases. The matron in charge was Miss Dorothy Brown, a trained nurse from the Lister Hospital in England. The hospital was not a money making venture, and with the assistance of some of his friends, Dr. Torrey was able to care for several patients who could not pay their own way.

The demand for hospital treatment was so insistent, that in 1890 more spacious quarters, a 3-story house, on Central Street was acquired and its facilities extended to other physicians. The capacity was at first ten beds and in 1895 a six bed ward for male patients was added, making a total of sixteen beds.

The calls on the hospital and needs of the community soon outran the facilities which Dr. Torrey was able to provide, so he wisely and generously conveyed the property to the Beverly Hospital Corporation as a gift without price or remuneration. A corporation was formed of Beverly people on June 3, 1893 and the hospital was formally accepted as BEVERLY HOSPITAL on June 19, 1893."

Miss Brown did not continue with the hospital at the Central Street location and Miss Frances L. Mackie was appointed as matron. She was succeeded by Mrs. C. H. Pike. Miss Hanson, as Head Nurse, was appointed to assist Mrs. Pike.

LAI D AT REST.

Services Held Yesterday Afternoon for the Late Dr. S. W. Torrey.

The funeral of Dr. Samuel W. Torrey was held from his late home, 106 Cabot street, yesterday afternoon. The house was filled with relatives and friends, and most of the Physicians, with directors, officials and nurses of the Everly hospital, of which the deceased was the founder, were in attendance. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. The services were conducted by Rev. William E. Strong, D. D., of Auburndale, a former pastor of the Washington Street church of this city.

The pall bearers were Dr. George W. Coggeshall of Washington, D. C.; Dr. Lyman Allen of Burlington, Vt., Samuel P. White and Carl Andren. The interment was in the Hale street cemetery.

My dear Miss Rantoul,

It seems proper for me, on finishing the second year of my private hospital for women, in the success of which so many of my friends have taken an interest without which I could not have carried it on, to write a short report of my doings.

In the first place I wish to renew my thanks to each one who has subscribed for the support of the patients who were unable to pay anything, or hardly anything themselves, a class of patients to whom the prolonged rest and quiet of a small hospital are often of as much benefit, to say nothing of the comfort, as the medical and surgical treatment they receive. It has been a satisfaction to me to feel at liberty to keep some of these poor women longer than was absolutely necessary (which favor cannot be granted in a large city hospital, where patients often have to wait weeks for admission,) so that I might be able to send them back to their families with more strength to resume their household burdens. The number of patients has been twenty-three, fourteen of whom have paid nothing, or merely a nominal charge; the length of stay in the hospital, for the poor patients, has been ninety-nine weeks; one was there for four months; the shortest time for any one patient was four weeks.

I had hoped that my second year might justify me in expecting that my paying patients would enable me to support my free patients, so that in a short time I might find it unnecessary to appeal to my friends for their subscriptions; in this expectation I am disappointed. I have received from paying patients, $889.50; this sum includes the amount received from the boarders, and also from those gynecological cases that I have treated as out-patients, for I have a regular office hour at the hospital for this class of diseases. The subscriptions for the support of the poor patients have amounted to $1030: $170 less than last year. I take the liberty of giving the names of all those who have subscribed during the two years of this hospital experiment:

Miss Anna C. Lowell,
Miss Hannah L. Rantoul,
Mr. Wm. Endicott,
Mr. Wm. Endicott, jr.,
Miss Clara T. Endicott,
Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Lothrop,
Miss K. P. Loring,
Miss L. P. Loring, for herself and a friend,
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burley,
Mrs. W. D. Pickman,
Miss Katharine E. Silsbee,
Mr. George S. Silsbee,
Mrs. A. A. Lawrence,
(J.) Mr. J. Elliot Cabot,
"A Friend," through Mr. Wm. Endicott, jr.

Dr. S. W. Torrey's
private hospital.

The expenses for the year have been a little over $37 a week; the receipts from all sources, a trifle over $35 a week, (the bills for the year not all being presented I can only approximate) which is a little better showing than for the first year. I present these figures as the most convenient way of answering a question which was asked of one of my friends, "Is Dr. Torrey running this hospital solely for his own pecuniary benefit?" If that were my sole object I hardly should care to repeat the experiment another year, as it must appear plain that the satisfaction I have derived from the work has not been obtained from the money I have made out of it. I trust I may not appear conceited in saying that my satisfaction largely consists in various letters of gratitude from patients who have been made well by their sojourn in the hospital, and who are stronger and happier for the prolonged rest which I have been able, through the liberality of their unknown friends, to afford them; this feeling of satisfaction you doubtless share with me. Fortunately I have the co-operation of an excellent English trained nurse, who has endeared herself to every woman under her care, and who has lightened my labors most pleasantly.

I will say frankly that my continuing the hospital another year will depend upon the willingness of my friends to join me in supporting the free patients. There is an ample field for its usefulness if I can receive the poor; there is not sufficient material, at any rate until its reputation is more extended, to enable the hospital itself to support its free patients. I shall be glad to have my friends visit the hospital at any time (except from three to four P. M.,) if they feel so inclined, feeling sure that Miss Brown will be pleased to show what little there is to show—a refuge rather than a hospital—for there are no wards and none of the paraphernalia of a city hospital—merely comfortable rooms for the reception of six female patients. These rooms have all been occupied at once, for four weeks during the year. The average number of patients per week has been three.

Yours very sincerely
S. W. Torrey

 Of Aseptic Surgery

The present campaign to expand the Beverly Hospital brings to mind the first hospital building at the corner of Cabot and Union streets. Anyone who remembers this hospital and its founder, Dr. Samuel Torrey, immediately thinks of another central figure, its first matron Nurse Georgiana Alice Dorothy Brown.

Nurse Brown, a typical English woman, kind, soft-spoken and sympathetic, studied under the nationally famous English doctor, Joseph Lister, founder of aseptic surgery. She wore the flowing uniform and long blue veil attached to her cap so familiar in English hospitals.

Her spirit and remarkable wisdom was a great aid to Dr. Torrey and was an inspiration for all who worked with her. Her ideals became and although she did not continue with the hospital after it moved to the present location her influence continued. All who knew her were devoted to her.

She had expert training. Dr. Lister, under whom she studied, was professor of clinical surgery at Edinburgh University and developed the first method of disinfecting by means of antiseptic dressings, and introduced aseptic surgery to the world. Miss Brown returned to England and it is not known definitely whether or not she is still alive.

THE HOSPITAL.

The following is the report of Dr. S. W. Torrey, and is of interest to all in town. As will be seen, the hospital is doing an excellent charitable work, and worthy of being sustained:

It seems proper for me, on finishing the second year of my private hospital for women, in the success of which so many of my friends have taken an interest without which I could not have carried it on, to write a short report of my doings.

In the first place I wish to renew my thanks to each one who has subscribed for the support of the patients who were unable to pay anything, or hardly anything themselves, a class of patients to whom the prolonged rest and quiet of a small hospital are often of as much benefit, to say nothing of the comfort, as the medical and surgical treatment they receive. It has been a satisfaction to me to feel at liberty to keep some of these poor women longer than was absolutely necessary (which favor cannot be granted in a large city hospital, where patients often have to wait weeks for admission,) so that I might be able to send them back to their families with more strength to resume their household burdens. The number of patients has been twenty-three, fourteen of whom have paid nothing, or merely a nominal charge; the length of stay in the hospital, for the poor patients, has been ninety-nine weeks; one was there for four months; the shortest time for any one patient was four weeks.

I had hoped that my second year might justify me in expecting that my paying patients would enable me to support my free patients, so that in a short time I might find it unnecessary to appeal to my friends for their subscriptions; in this expectation I am disappointed. Dear Madame

This will call your attention to the fact that the article in the "Beverly Times" of July 23, in regard to Dr. J. M. Torrey's private hospital, was published under a misapprehension of his intentions, and without the Doctor's knowledge. He naturally felt annoyed that what he intended as a private communication should have been made public, and in justice to him and his patients, we make this explanation.

Yours Truly
Publisher of
"Beverly Times."

ANNUAL MEETING.

Beverly Hospital Corporation Re- elects Directors.

At the annual meeting of the Corporation of the Beverly hospital, the report of the directors was read by the president, John W. Carter.

There have been 142 patients treated during the year, 67 of these free patients; there have been several improvements made in the building, and the appliances for the care of the sick are better than ever before; one nurse, Miss Alice Youmans has passed the two years' course and the physicians' examination, and been graduated; the School of Instruction has now six nurses in training.

The treasurer's report was very satisfactory. Four directors were re-elected, John W. Carter, Edward L. Giddings, Mrs. W. C. Boyden and Miss

DR. B. G. MCGRATH.

Appointed to the Medical Staff of the Beverly Hospital.

Tuesday evening at a meeting of the board of directors of the Beverly City Hospital Dr. B. F. McGrath was appointed a member of the attending medical staff. Dr. McGrath is a college graduate, having made his classical course at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., where he received the degree Bachelor of Arts. After his college course he took up the study of medicine and received his medical degree in 1895. He then began an extensive hospital career, serving as resident physician and house surgeon in the following public institutions of Washington:

The Emergency hospital and Central dispensary, the hospital for Incurables, the Washington Asylum Hospital, the Columbia hospital for Women and Lying-in Asylum. From the last institution he came to Beverly to begin private practice. Dr. McGrath is a member of the Washington Medical Association and the Massachusetts Medical society.

District Nursing.

At the Beverly hospital the plan of district nursing has been carried out very successfully more than a year. Each month one nurse is detailed to make the calls, and it is considered a part of her training. Her bag is always kept ready for service, filled with every necessary article for assistance to the physician or comfort for the patient.

During one month of the past year nearly 200 calls were made, and there has been an average of over 140 calls every month. More than half of those visits have been given free. Many who cannot have the expensive services of a trained nurse are very thankful for daily visits of an hour at a moderate expense, and during that time the nurse often finds a variety of duties, all the little things that a good nurse can do so deftly and well for the comfort of the sick one, the food prepared daintily and the good cheer that she brings with her, give a good object lesson to those in the home who are accustomed to the care of the sick and provide for better care of the patient the remainder of the day.

Louisa P. Loring.

Rev. Dr. Addison, the first president of the hospital, was present and expressed great pleasure in the improvements which he saw; he spoke of the need of a local hospital which had been recognized in Brookline, and $50,000 had already been appropriated for one in that town.

When the public realize that six or seven patients have been treated during the year without compensation, those who are interested in the work will be ready to respond heartily to the invitation of the directors to a "Hospital Day," July 2d, and those who have not understood the blessing it is to the suffering ones in our city, will have an opportunity to visit and inspect the institution and the privileges of helping so worthy an object.

TYPHOID AT THE HOSPITAL.

Two Nurses and Matron Sick with Malady.

LOOKING FOR CAUSE.

Think it is Found in Old Cesspool. It Was Formerly a Well and Has Been Standing
Since the Hospital Was Connected With the Sewer. Evidently Someone Blundered.

There is evidently something wrong at the Beverly Hospital and it is a subject of concern to the patrons that there is considerable sickness there, which at present includes the matron and two nurses, who are sick with typhoid fever and not so very long ago a woman died there from this same disease.

The question might well be asked whether or not the Hospital is a spreader or an exterminator of contagious diseases?

The management it is said have become considerably alarmed at the condition of things and have been making an effort to locate the cause and believe they have found it in an old well on the premises.

This well is about seventy feet deep, and was used for a cesspool for a long time, by the hospital, but when the sewer was put in, the hospital was connected and the old well was never filled up, but was allowed to remain with its contents simply covered at the top.

Something was done to the combination well-cesspool a short time since and when the cover was taken off it is said that the noxious vapor could be seen rising like steam.

It is thought that perhaps this may be cause of the typhoid which now exists at the institution. If such is the case the proper thing to do, it would seem, would be to fill the old well up and thus get rid of the old sewage which must have accumulated there in quantities.

This is a matter that should have been attended to long ago and that somebody blundered in not taking proper precautions in an institution where the patrons are not supposed to be in condition to ward off disease.

The annual meeting of the Beverly hospital corporation was held at the hospital on Central street last evening, with twenty members of the corporation present.

AUGUSTUS J. BOYDEN
Elected Clerk of the Beverly Hospital Corporation.

Charles Woodberry, the president, in his annual report, told of the needs for a new hospital, and of the work which had been done along that line. He said that $100,000 would probably be necessary and that the cooperation of every resident of Beverly was needed to carry the project to a successful end.

Augustus J. Boyden was elected clerk in place of Roland W. Boyden, who retires after several years of faithful service.

Treasurer Augustus P. Loring, in his annual report, showed that the running expenses of the hospital for the year were about $11,000 and the receipts about $4,000. The deficit had been made up by the receipts from the lawn party, the Sam-Sam, the Republican club minstrels, the Baptist Sunday school Easter collection, by the Lothrop club and other donations from individuals and firms.

Mr. Loring was re-elected treasurer and Joseph C. Kilham, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Jesse G. Trask, Charles Woodberry, Patrick J. Lynch and H. O. Woodbury were re-elected directors. The following were elected members of the corporation: Geo. W. Colson, Louis L. Dodge, Chas. W. Small, J. Clifford Dodge, Orville H. Woodbury, A. S. Hoogs, A. J. Boyden, Albert Boyden, Mrs. J. W. Carter, Miss Katherine E. Silsbee, Mrs. Zeno C. Ross, Miss Ellen Smith, Miss Laura J. Woodberry and Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Leland.

HUNDREDS PAID LAST TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

Funeral Services For John W. Carter. Wealth of Beautiful Flowers. Eulogy by Rev. E. H. Byington

Beloved by his townspeople, hundreds of whom attended the services at the Dane street church, all that was mortal of John W. Carter was laid at rest Thursday afternoon.

Men of all professions and vocations, men and women in all walks of society, the young and the old united in their last tribute of respect to one whom they had respected and loved.

The service was conducted by Rev. Edwin Hallock Byington, pastor of the Dane street church, at which the deceased had been an attendant for many years. Leslie H. Goldthwait, organist of the church presided at the organ and several selections were rendered by The Harvard quartet of Boston. Jewell Boyd, first tenor; Lester Bartlett, second tenor; Wirt Phillips, first bass; Jack Thomas, second bass.

The service for the burial of the dead was read by Mr. Byington as the bearers, preceded the body up the aisle followed by the relatives and Liberty lodge F. & A. M.

The quartet rendered "O Paradise" after which selections of Scripture were read by Mr. Byington who with much feeling spoke as follows concerning the deceased:

We are assembled this afternoon to give this tribute of our affection, and this expression of our sincere sympathy, because of the death of one dear to us. He has been associated with the life of this community so long and so intimately that a comprehensive survey of his many interests and an analysis of his personality would be most appropriate.

But the dominant feeling here this afternoon is essentially personal, a personal regard and a personal loss, and while the mind calls for a symmetrical outline of his character and career, the heart longs to express itself in simpler ways; and I am sure that you will pardon me if instead of attempting a formal address, I allow my feelings informal and affectionate utterance at this time.

I remember with perfect distinction the place, the occasion, the moment when four and one half years ago ward the trees find expression in the words that Sidney Lauier tells of Christ among the trees on the Mount of Olives.

Our friend's delight in the trees and all nature was not simply restitude; it was deeper than that, being earnest and spiritual. Very unexpected, and to me very inspiring, were his words one evening at the Men's club when he was describing experiences in the Maine woods. Dwelling on the beauties of the scenery, he turned one side from the main theme of the evening and gave a beautiful testimony to the consciousness of God's presence which was inspired by beholding what the Creator had wrought. And it is no slight revelation of his spirit that his favorite poem was concerning the relation of the human soul to that supreme being, our heavenly father—Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar."

"Still, Still With Thee" was beautifully rendered by the quartet, and Liberty lodge of Masons took charge

REMONSTRANCE

To Messrs: Ingalls Kittredge
W. C. Boyden
Ingalls Kittredge, Jr.
Augustus Torrey
Beverly

Year 1836

Gentlemen:

We would respectfully represent that your present advance of prices is a grievance which calls for redress. We consider a respectful remonstrance as the least objectionable manner of complaint, and while we wish to preserve a due regard for your rights and to hold them sacred, we cannot forget our own.

We are aware that the education necessary for the practice of a profession is attended with expense, we are likewise aware that citizens in other callings use more than the same amount of capital, with less income, in proportion to the arduousness of the service. We are aware that talent is necessary for such practice, yet there is not, as we perceive, a scarcity of such talent.

Your necessary expenses are more than those of many of your petitioners, yet for these you do and have charged extra. Some of you Gentlemen have we believe considered your nominal prices but about half the present prices and we certainly should not wish to say that your nominal price was not your real one. Why this advance?

We do not perceive judging from appearance any reason why you should call for this increase of price. We are perfectly aware that some of you are wealthy already, and those whose price is the lowest, not the least so, and if it be not the case with all we see no defect in the former prices which should prevent it.

If the population of this town is not sufficiently large for the sufficient employment of the present number of Physicians, we do not consider that a defect for which we are accountable.

A time of health we are aware does not fill your purses, yet which of your patients does not experience a corresponding evil, there are dull times, Gentlemen in all kinds of business. The charges for extra service are peculiarly objectionable. We suppose any common service a necessary appendage of the visit. It appears you do not.

The reasons in some cases for an extraordinary advance of price are evils which many of the patients suffer as a necessary consequence of their calling. Should each patient at a distance be charged with all the extra expense resulting from that distance when you perhaps have several patients in the same vicinity? Should the Sailor whose every slumber is broken by the calls of his common duty, pay you more than his day and night wages, for but one interruption of your slumbers? Besides Gentlemen do you never complain of being called to a patient too late?

May not the extent of even your former charges have been the reason, and one not founded in avarice, or the wilful neglect of those whom perhaps you blame? The father of a family may look upon his sick child and the reluctance to incur a debt which he may be unable to pay, or which if he do, will deprive him of, or seriously limit his means of providing for their common necessities, may prevent him from calling on you for advice, until you find to your sorrow and his that it is too late.

It does not appear to us that the present advance of prices will yield a corresponding advance of income, it may be a loss on our part of advice, rather than an increase of receipts on yours, not to say that the difficulty of collecting your bills will be increased probably by the increased number of those, who will be unable to discharge them, although we are aware that your facilities for collecting are equal or superior to those of others.

Gentlemen we do not wish an unreasonable reduction of your prices. We merely say that we consider forty two cents as the extent which should be charged for a common visit, and we ask a general return to your former prices. We likewise have to request that in your future bills, the particulars be specified.

Gentlemen, we are sorry to see some particulars in your communication which reflect on the character of your petitioners. Gentlemen we do not wish to sever the relation which subsists between us and we hope there will be no occasion. You will oblige us by returning an answer to this as soon as convenient, that we may take such order on the subject as the case may demand.

The within Remonstrance was adopted at a full meeting held by the Citizens of Beverly at the Town Hall on Wednesday Evening March 2, 1836 and Mr. Israel Trask, Mr. Daniel Hildreth and Mr. John Morgan were chosen a Committee to present the same to you for your consideration as an expression of the opinion of the citizens, and also to receive such communications as you may wish to make upon the subject.

DOCTOR SAMUEL WILLIAM TORREY

Doctor Samuel W. Torrey was the founder of the Beverly Hospital.

The requirements of his professional work led him first to establish hospital accommodations for his private practice, but it was soon apparent that the needs of the people called for an institution of this kind which should be available for the general public. Thereupon, the Beverly Hospital Corporation was organized and Doctor Torrey presented to it his land, building, and equipment. From this gift, amplified as time went on by the money and personal effort of generous citizens, has grown the hospital of today.

It is fitting that acknowledgment should here be made of this indebtedness to Doctor Torrey on the part of Beverly and our neighbor towns. It is a pleasure also to recall the expressions of appreciation and gratitude which, at the time of Doctor Torrey's death, were heard at every hand.

A retrospect of the founding of our hospital tells, as by a parable, how one man, of a kindly public spirit, courageous, intelligent, generous, can leave his blessing upon an entire community.

called to the rectorship of All Saints' Church, Brookline, Massachusetts, where he remained until 1920, retiring in that year with the title of rector honorarius. After his retirement he preached frequently in pulpits throughout Massachusetts and gave many public addresses.

During the years of his active ministry Dr. Addison was examining chaplain to the bishop of Massachusetts (1904); registrar of the Diocese of Massachusetts for many years; secretary of the Cathedral Chapter of the Diocese of Massachusetts from its beginning; deputy to the general convention of the church in 1910, and delegate to the Pan-Anglican Congress in London in 1908. During 1918-20 he was president of the Federation of Churches of Greater Boston. He was a trustee of the College of Monrovia, Liberia; a director of the Church Temperance Society, and president of the Massachusetts Clerical Association and the Board of Trustees of Donations for Education in Liberia.

Apart from his work for the church he was a trustee of the Brookline Public Library for twenty-five years, and president of the New England

After his retirement from the active ministry he took up oil painting, in which he had always been interested, and, aided by the sympathy and encouragement of his wife, a painter and designer, became quite proficient in this art. He exhibited at the Business Men's Art Club of Boston (of which he was a founder and president), at the Civic Society of Brookline, at summer exhibitions at Marion, Massachusetts, and at the annual exhibition of the work of local artists held in the department store of the Jordan Marsh Company in Boston. A number of his paintings were sold. He spent one winter painting in Texas and several in France, chiefly at Hyeres on the French Riviera.

of First Beverly Hospital, corner

1888 - 1890

Nurse Brown, a typical English woman, kind, soft-spoken and sympathetic, studied under the nationally famous doctor, Joseph Lister, founder of aseptic surgery. She wore the flowing uniform and long blue veil attached to the cap so familiar in English hospitals.

Her spirit and remarkable wisdom was a great aid to Dr. Torrey and was an inspiration for all who worked with her. Her ideals became a very part of that first hospital. All who knew her were devoted to her.

Miss Brown returned to England in 1890.

LETTERS FOR THE PEOPLE.

This Column is the Peoples, to Have Their Say In, the Editor is Not Responsible.

To the Editor of the Beverly Times.
Dear Sir.—The Beverly hospital imbroglio, as described in the Times of Saturday is, to say the least, unfortunate in its inception, its continuance and its culmination. The prospect of doctors quarrelling over methods and details, will furnish new terraces for the contemplation of future candidates for their operations, who will be in the position of the under dog in the fight.

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree?"
Was asked long years ago.

The answer in this case will be "The public!" and the Times was right in saying so."

Nor will they brook any "P. B. D." sentiments, insinuated or expressed by the directors of the above institution. The public will hardly tumble over one another to pass in their contributions for its support, nor will they advise "their sisters, their cousins and their aunts" to bequeath funds from their abundance to so turbulent an institution, under existing conditions.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." As one of the Public and having no personal acquaintance with the offending and offending parties in this matter, it looks to the writer as if these alleged offences were committed in the line of progress. That doctors are not infallible goes without saying. Their labors for a thousand years have been rightly called practice, and untold generations have been "patient" as possible under their experiments. All advancement in surgery and medicine have been accomplished by some one who dared to brave the opposition and envy of his fellows.

It would seem that a hospital should be an asylum for suffering humanity, supplied with every expedient to relieve pains, accessible to all acknowledged physicians; conducted under rules sufficiently rigid to exclude presumptuous ignorance, as well as arbitrary arrogance, and under the control of a board of directors capable of looking above and beyond all jealousies and disagreements of the faculty and other employees of the establishment, and of judging impartially as occasion requires. To such an institution the Public as the final arbiter in such matters, will give its hearty co-operation and support.

the aforesaid rules. Finally Julian said: "Well, I will make his proposition: I am willing to leave it to Mr. Stuart, and abide by his decision."

"I don't think I am capable of deciding a technical point in prize ring rules," said Stuart, "and I hardly care to undertake to make the decision."

"Then I am willing to leave the matter with you and Siler," said Julian, "although Siler has already declared himself on the question."

His suited Brady, and the jury retired, returning in a few minutes with the announcement that they had decided to uphold the interpretation of the rules made by Mr. Siler. Julian hesitated for some minutes, and then gave way.

"I want to say, gentlemen," he said, "that in all his fights Fitzsimmons has always given up everything, and he will do it now. We will fight under the rules as Siler construes them, even if we don't like them."

Bob and Jim Talk.

The red-headed fighter himself did not appear to be over-pleased with the result of the conference, but he did not lose any of the confidence that has characterized him ever since he began training for the fight.

"I have always fought under the rules, meaning the men shall not hit with the arm free and with all the break-aways clean," said Fitz, "and this is rather a new thing for me. Corbett has won all of his fights under the rules as I want them, and I don't see why he should make a holler for something different this time. However, I have always given in on everything to everybody, and I am willing to give in on this. I want the fight to be on the square, and I know I will win it. I will be the winner of that fight on the 17th of March just as sure as I am alive today. Corbett cannot lick me, and he will never see the day he can, no matter whether he fights under Marquis of Queensberry rules or any other rules."

Corbett was inclined to view the surrender of Julian with scorn. "That is what they have been praying for all along," said Corbett. "It is in every way the advantage of Fitz to hit with one free. It is conceded on all sides he is a harder hitter than I am, and he is better on the jab than I am. On the other hand, I am better than in long range fighting, and I am scientific. I consider it very much to his advantage than to mine that as ruled as he had. I was willing and I always have been willing, to anything the referee says. I consider Fitz is giving up anything all when he agrees to fight as he should. I'll bet he is in his sleeve right now at the will get with the people who show him for agreeing to something more than anything else. of one thing," continued Corbett, "removes the last obstacle to fighting unless Fitz loses his nerve. The fight is now a certainty, and when that fellow in the ring I am going to make him repent all the hard things he has been saying about me all these years."

stomach, and explain, briefly, the process of digestion. Reference to the drawing here shown may help in understanding the matter.

An outline view of the Human Stomach, with the front wall removed to show the lining of the organ.

- (A) Portion of the outer wall of Stomach.
- (B) Section of Duodenum.
- (C) Esophagus, through which food enters the Stomach.
- (D) Pylorus, or gate through which the digested food passes into the Duodenum.
- (E) A section of the inner surface of the Stomach, greatly Magnified. The dark spots are the mouths of the little tubes through which the gastric juices come.

The human stomach is an elongated curved pouch, holding, on an average, about five pints. It has strong muscular walls and an inner muscular coat, which is capable of motion. The organ is lined with mucous membrane—the same membrane that lines the mouth, nose, throat and bowels. The membrane is thickly dotted with little pits (see E in the cut). These are the mouths of minute tubes that have direct connection with the blood vessels of the stomach. Through them come the gastric juices that digest food. When food enters a healthy stomach the muscular walls contract on it and knead, roll and mix it. The food is kept moving so that every portion will come in contact with the gastric juices pouring out of the little tubes. These fluids soften and dissolve what we eat, and thus prepare it for absorption. The nutrition of the body depends entirely on perfect digestion, and perfect digestion depends largely on the rapid secretion of an abundant quantity of healthy gastric juice. If the stomach is to do its work thoroughly, it must have the muscular power to keep the food mixing and moving, or else portions of it will remain undigested and become a source of danger to us. There must be an ample supply of gastric juice secreted—from fourteen to twenty pounds daily. This returns to the blood when its mission is ended. If a scant amount of gastric juice is formed, digestion is not only delayed or prevented, but the germs always present in the stomach set up fermentation or decay. Poisons are created—frequently enough to kill us if they were all absorbed.

Dr. Frank Woodbury, A. M., M. D., says in his recent treatise on Dyspepsia: "One of the most common causes of digestive disorder is inflammation of the stomach accompanied by excessive secretion of mucus, forming what is usually termed gastric catarrh."

This is indeed, the cause of a large share of the cases of chronic indigestion, and the reason is simple. Refer to the cut and notice the magnified section of the lining of the stomach. The dark spots are the mouths of the little tubes through which the gastric juices enter the stomach. Inflammation causes pressure on these tubes and

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BEVERLY HOSPITAL

1893 - 1894

To the Corporation of the Beverly Hospital:

SIRS: The first meeting of the Directors after their election, was held in the Beverly Historical House, on June 24th, 1893. Having organized for work by the election of officers and the appointment of committees, the Board entered at once upon its duties of carrying on the important task that has been intrusted to it, viz: the management of the Hospital as a public institution. The Directors felt a grave responsibility resting upon them to maintain under the new conditions the former usefulness of the institution, and to add to the efficiency of the Hospital, so generously given to the citizens by its wise founder, Dr. Samuel W. Torrey.

Though inexperienced in the management of a Hospital, the Directors determined to learn and adopt the latest and most approved methods in use in similar institutions. We have been greatly helped by the information we have received from the Hospitals in Salem, Lynn, Cambridge, Quincy, Newburyport, Lawrence, Springfield, The Massachusetts General and City Hospitals of Boston, and the Rhode Island Hospital in Providence: all of these Hospitals have been visited by members of the Board. Our rules were adopted after the most careful examination and discussion. They are submitted with this report.

May I be allowed a personal word of testimony to the earnestness and intelligence of the different members of the Board, who have given freely their time and energy for the best interests of the Hospital, and have wisely managed its affairs during this its first year of existence as a public institution? I believe they have laid the foundations for its future growth and usefulness.

We have to record some changes in the Board since its election. It was with regret that the resignations of Mr. A. P. Loring and Mrs. John C. Phillips, were accepted. It was with the profoundest sorrow that we felt the loss of Mr. Charles I. Giddings, who heroically gave his life in trying to save another. I will read the minutes spread upon our records; they will show our appreciation of his character and services:

"We, the Directors of the Beverly Hospital Corporation, desire to put on record our great sorrow at the death of Mr. Charles I. Giddings, who has been associated with us in the management of the Hospital since its incorporation. He had served as a member of the Visiting Committee, and on other special committees appointed from time to time. We desire to express our appreciation of his character and work. He was active in the discharge of his duties, thoughtful in matters of detail, unselfish in the use of his time, fertile in suggestion, and careful in carrying out his plans. The interests of the Hospital were fast taking a deep hold upon him. We shall miss his earnest help and quick sympathy. His death was like his life, showing a disregard of self (lost his life by drowning saving the life of his fiancée), and a care for the sufferings of others."

We filled the vacancies in the Board, by the election of Mrs. Jesse G. Trask, and Mr. Edward L. Giddings.

We elected as Medical staff of the Hospital the following named physicians: Dr. Samuel W. Torrey; Dr. Frank A. Cowles; Dr. Thomas J. Hayes; Dr. George A. Stickney; Dr. Will H. Swan; Dr. O. F. Swasey; Dr. D. B. Manchester; and Dr. C. W. Haddock, Specialist in Eye, Ear, and Throat diseases. We desire to express our grateful recognition of the services of the physicians, who have co-operated with us during the past year, and who have, by their efficient aid, rendered possible the success we have had.

Our first Matron, Miss Frances L. Mackie, after having given her conscientious work to the Hospital, resigned; and in her place, we have elected Mrs. C. H. Pike, whose sympathy and good sense are making her valuable to the Institution. The corps of nurses consists of a Matron, a Head-Nurse, and four Pupil Nurses. Though a small Hospital, it seemed advisable to have a Training School for nurses, in which, during a two year's course, we might educate young men, for the position of Trained Nurse, and be prepared to send them into the homes of the community when needed. Lectures have been given weekly to the Nurses by members of the Staff.

During the year there have been some improvements in the Hospital building and grounds. The operating room, originally small and rather dark, has been enlarged by the tearing down of a partition, and greatly improved by the placing in the roof of a large sky-light which throws upon the operating table a light sufficiently strong for the most difficult surgical cases. Also, we have fitted up a room on the ground floor for a surgical room, to be used in accident cases. Iron bed-steads of the most improved patterns, have been substituted for the wooden beds in the Wards and private rooms. At the suggestion of the Fire-Inspector, we built a fire-escape from the Women's Ward, the rest of the house being sufficiently protected by the two stair-ways, one at each end of the building. The Director's Room has been appropriately furnished with rugs, chairs, desk, etc. A summer-house for the use of convalescent patients has been built; it adds to the beauty of the grounds, and is a great comfort to the sick.

We are glad to announce that many free patients have been treated during the year; for one of the objects of the Hospital is to provide a place where the sick who are not able to pay can be received and have proper medical treatment. We want the community to understand this thoroughly. Our relations to the Overseers of the Poor are these: (by special arrangement with the Overseers) we collect payment from them only when they have been already helping the individuals or the family; but when neither have been helped by the Town, they are cheerfully received without any charges; and patients from other towns are received free when the Visiting Committee so decides.

There have been, for the year ending May 1st, 1894, ninety patients in the Hospital, making 3476 Hospital days. The occupations of the patients indicate how many different classes of people have been helped:

There have been fifty-two surgical cases and thirty-eight medical cases: thirty-eight operations, thirteen of these, accident cases. Since May 1st, up to July 15th, there have been twenty patients admitted: ten surgical, and ten medical; of these, seven have been accidents; two from explosives; three from carriage accidents; one from a stabbing affray, one from blow from machinery.

The nationalities of the patients were varied: among them have been persons from Ireland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, England, Sweden, Italy.

We wish to make acknowledgement for the many gifts which the Hospital has received, through subscriptions, and in other ways. The quick response on the part of the citizens to our efforts to raise the first five thousand dollars, was most encouraging; and the sums that we have received from entertainments, have shown very general interest among the people. We have to thank our Summer Residents for their subscriptions, and the money raised by the performance of "Medea," the bright operetta written by our treasurer, Mr. A. P. Loring. The Comedy Club raised sufficient money to furnish the Office by their play in the Beverly Opera House. There have been numerous private gifts of useful articles - linen, china, table-silver, reading matter, medical instruments, etc. Special mention must be made of the great Hospital Fair held in March - "The White Bazaar." It was the most successful of its kind ever held in Beverly. Through the ingenuity and earnestness of our Secretary, Mr. Alban Andren (brother-in-law of Dr. Torrey), it not only proved most interesting by reason of the "Ferris Wheel" under the direction of the "Thursday Club," and the attendants dressed as foreign Hospital nurses, but by enlisting the support of all the Churches and organizations of the town, it showed the interest of the community in our institution, and raised the large sum of $2701.57, with an additional $81.68 from the "Charity Ball."

The Beverly Hospital is no longer an experiment. It has taken its place as a permanent addition to the Town. Skillful surgical operations have been performed; severe accidents have been promptly attended to; individuals, who could not have proper attention at home, have been taken care of: these facts prove the wisdom of its founding. As the City grows the Hospital will continue to fulfill its mission of taking care of the sick.

For the Board of Directors,

D. D. ADDISON, President.

*Deceased

I propose to transfer the estate to a corporation, if assurance shall presently be forthcoming that the necessary money will be raised to maintain it for the coming year. I say for the coming year, because I am confident that by the end of that time the citizens of Beverly will be glad to support a charity in which they will have a more intimate personal interest than they can feel, while it is under a one man administration.

The real estate, hospital building and equipment, are easily worth $8000; there is a mortgage on the real estate of $3500. I will surrender the title deeds to a corporation upon that body agreeing to assume the mortgage obligations and the outstanding bills that may remain unpaid at time of transfer; these bills possibly may amount to $500, not more. This transfer of the property is subject to a few conditions: First, the institution shall be called the Beverly Hospital; second, it always shall be used for hospital purposes, either as the permanent location of the hospital, or by its sale, for a possible more suitable site in the future; third, the staff of physicians shall be members of the Massachusetts Medical Society residing in Beverly; fourth, the staff shall be allowed to attend, at their usual charges, private patients who shall wish to avail themselves of the hospital privileges, such patients to pay for board and nursing; fifth, preference being given to the poor of Beverly, the privileges of the hospital shall be allowed, as now, to any poor person whom the staff may judge a suitable person for admission.

Beverly perhaps does not know that this hospital could not have been carried on but for the generous help given by those who spend only their summer here. Knowing it, the people of our town will hardly fail to be glad to join hands with them now in supporting the institution in its new phase. Having seen how much good the hospital has done so far, and it being apparent that I shall have no pecuniary interest in it in the future, I feel that I have a right to urge its claims upon my fellow citizens. The example of other towns in their support of local hospitals, is worthy of consideration: take that of Waltham, for instance: a hospital started there as a private gynecological one as was the case with the Beverly hospital, has grown in a very few years into a very successful general hospital, with finely equipped buildings upon a beautiful site, and a well managed training school for nurses, all secured to future usefulness and prosperity by the generous friends who feel that no money is so well invested as that which provides freely and adequately for the relief of the sick, the suffering and the poor.

Again, there is Lawrence, which has a most excellent hospital and a home for children, the result of the untiring labors of a band of women who started with a capital of faith, enthusiasm and determination, and have now as their reward, in addition to the hospital plant, and endowment fund of nearly $30,000. Beverly, with its 1200 inhabitants, needs, and will gladly support a hospital that will afford the town as much satisfaction and pride as Lawrence, Waltham, Quincy, Newton, Salem, feel in theirs; and if signs do not fail, the time is come for the realization of the hopes of those who have looked upon the present Beverly hospital as the nucleus of that well endowed, thoroughly equipped institution, which shall command the hearty support and affection of the whole community. We shall have in the future, as we have in the past, the willing hands of those who worked last summer for the fair, and in winter for the theatrical entertainment; and we shall have the same generous friends who have given of their wealth to help what hitherto has been an experiment in the hands of one whose most grateful appreciation of such generosity and confidence it is perhaps not improper to acknowledge publicly.

Under the proposed new management, the hospital, with its accommodations for twenty patients, will need at least $5000 for its maintenance the coming year; its paying patients ought to bring at least $1500, but it should not be difficult to raise the entire $5000 right here in town, if everyone who reads this appeal will contribute something; surely there are one hundred enthusiasts who can spare twenty dollars each; two hundred who will not feel the loss of ten dollars apiece, and five hundred who will be proud to feel that their modest two dollar subscriptions give them a personal interest in the success of the hospital. Besides the subscriptions to guarantee the support for one year, it would be very pleasant to have large donations from friends who believe that an endowment fund is a useful attachment to a hospital. With the confident expectation that the response to this appeal will be quick, hearty and liberal, I will only say further that subscriptions and pledges will be acknowledged promptly by the gentlemen whose endorsement below will justify public confidence in the scheme. Immediately after the pledging of the sum deemed necessary to maintain the hospital one year, a meeting of the corporation will be called, and trustees for the government and administration of the institution chosen.

The corporation so far consists of the following gentlemen, who will elect additional members to make the entire number thirty:

R.R. Endicott,
H.O. Woodbury,
J.W. Carter,
E.L. Giddings,
Wm. Endicott, Jr.,
D.L. Pickman,

Respectfully,

We have been familiar with the organization and management of the Public Hospital, hitherto in charge of Dr. S.W. Torrey, and have known of the very considerable cost to him, both in time and money, of the experiment. It has certainly proved to be a great success.

In a town of so large a population as Beverly, the need of such a hospital is likely to be a constantly increasing one, and now that Dr. Torrey proposes to place the management in the hands of a Corporation to be organized for that purpose, we take pleasure in commending it to the cordial interest and generous support of all who feel an interest in the town.

WHO OWNS THE HOSPITAL?

Some of the Conditions Under Which it Was Turned Over to the Incorporators.

Shuts Out Many Physicians of the City. Then Reverts Back to Owner if Not Used For Hospital Purposes. Doctor Must Join Massachusetts Medical Society if He Would Practice There.

THE BEVERLY HOSPITAL.

The Evening Times has waited two weeks or more for the directors of the Beverly hospital to explain to the public, on whom they depend for support of the hospital, why Dr. F. A. Cowles was unceremoniously forced from the staff of that institution, when a majority of the physicians were opposed to it, and when the directors must have known that their action would have a tendency to injure his private practice, as well as debar his patients from the privileges of the hospital.

As they evidently intend to ignore the right of the press to speak for the people who contribute of their substance to maintain and build up this institution, and keep it on a financial basis consistent with the other charities of the city, the Evening Times goes further and would ask them to explain to these contributors, whether or not the hospital is a private or public institution?

If the hospital is a public institution, why is any reputable physician debarred from its privilege, and why has a board of directors the right to "freeze out" one physician, and keep the name of another before it for months without action?

Is it not true that the hospital today is practically the property of its founder, Dr. S. W. Torrey?

Is it not true that the corporation to whom he turned it over in 1893 could say, "we are tired of carrying this burden longer and after July 1st it will cease to be the Beverly hospital and its charter will be surrendered?"

Is it not true that in that case and under the conditions under which it was accepted, that it reverts back to Dr. Torrey, with all its additions, improvements, in furnishings, operating tables, surgical instruments, beds and the building itself?

Is it not true that the citizens of the city who contribute so liberally towards its support have no voice in its management, and could have nothing to say if the incorporators should decide to close the hospital?

Is it not true, also, and we have put this question to nearly every member of the medical staff, that a majority of both the incorporators and directors are patients of Dr. Torrey? Their answer was, that they are.

The columns of the Times are open for answers to these questions, and if the directors do not care to explain their action toward Dr. Cowles, perhaps they will answer these questions for the benefit of those who spend their money for the purpose of building up a hospital here.

March 30, 1892, Dr. S. W. Torrey, having found the burden of the hospital more than he wanted to carry as a private institution, decided to turn it over to a corporation, and did so, and numerous gentlemen, to the number of 15 or 20, were named by him as incorporators, and this action was endorsed by the physicians, and strange as it may seem now, the very first to head the list was Dr. Cowles.

In his statements to the public at that time, Dr. Torrey said the smallest number of patients at the hospital under his management was seven, and the largest, 17, but since the hospital has become a "public" one the number has often been below seven. Again, at this time four physicians were named who had treated their patients at this private hospital, and strange to say, Dr. Cowles again heads the list, showing that as a physician he ranked high and the doors of Dr. Torrey's private hospital were open to him.

In his appeal to the public to assume the burden of the hospital, Dr. Torrey said: "I am confident the citizens of Beverly will be glad to support a charity in which they will have a more intimate personal interest than they can feel, while it is under a one man administration." What does this mean if not that the people of Beverly were to have a voice in its management, as in other charities, and the days of "one man administration" were to end?

But the whole trouble is in the conditions under which the hospital was turned over to the incorporators, for they practically prevent it from being a hospital for the whole people, or as Dr. Torrey said at the time, "this transfer of the property is subject to a few conditions."

The most important of these conditions were, first, that the staff of physicians shall be members of the Massachusetts Medical Society; second, the staff shall be allowed to attend at their usual charges, private patients, such patients to pay only for board and nursing, and lastly, and the most important of all, it must always be used for hospital purposes, and that there may be no mistake in regard to this latter clause, we have taken a copy of the condition from the deed at the Register of Probate's office, as follows:

Subject to the following conditions, which shall be construed strictly and shall remain in force ONLY AS LONG AS THE LAND IS OWNED BY THE WITHIN GRANT. BE, THAT THE PREMISES SHALL BE USED FOR A HOSPITAL," etc.

It will be seen by the above that these are very narrow grounds on which to establish a broad and liberal charity, which shall appeal to all the people for support and endowments. The first of these is pernicious, for it confines the staff to a comparative few physicians, for they must be members of the Massachusetts Medical society, an organization which excludes all affiliation with homoeopathy, although there are at least three or four physicians of this school in the city having a large practice among the people, who are asked to support this institution.

Again, there are other physicians who have not seen fit to join this state society, yet are graduates of the best colleges of the country, and their patients are asked to contribute to its support, yet they could not be treated there and have their family physician attend them. That at present bars out two or more physicians, and there may be many others in the future locate here, but this condition bars them out forever. So it will be readily seen that if the directors see fit to "freeze out" one or two more and others should die or leave the city, the staff would be confined to so few that it would make it practically a private hospital, supported at public expense.

Then there is the second important condition, that the staff shall have the use of the hospital for private patients and only pay for board and nursing, while the physician can make his "usual charges." What does that mean? It means that the whole operating paraphernalia of the hospital, which has cost the people hundreds of dollars, is put at their disposal, and the hospital receives from $7 to $15 a week, while the physician makes the "usual charge" of say $200 or $250. In other words, the hospital receives perhaps $25 or $30, while the physician has the rest. It is true the physician takes his month at the hospital once or even twice a year, and receives no pay for it, but it is equally true that the people who contribute their money to support the hospital do their share with no thought of personal return, and that puts them on equal terms with the physician.

And then comes the condition, that the "property must always be used for hospital purposes." This is a condition of things that should not exist. For while Dr. Torrey has turned this property over to the corporation apparently, it is practically his property, for the violation of the conditions, if we understand the matter aright, would make the whole institution, with all its improvements, revert back to him.

To our mind, to make this in reality a Beverly institution, Dr. Torrey and the incorporators should get together and turn the property over to the city, thus allowing every physician of the city to use it, and then its usefulness would be much more far reaching and beneficial. We don't want a "close corporation" supported by the people's money and so managed that physicians, matrons and nurses can be "fired out" without a hearing, at the whim of a board of directors or the dictates of any member of the staff.

We leave this here for the directors to correct us if we have made mistakes, and tender them again our compliments for their reply. In the meantime, there are other interesting things in connection with this institution which will appear later.

been forced from the medical staff of the Beverly hospital, and an institution supported at public expense, which was exclusive in the first place is made even more exclusive.

The forcing of Dr. Cowles from the privileges of the hospital is one of the most cold-blooded acts that has been recorded for some time.

The original trouble dates back to last summer previous to the resignation of Capt. Giddings, Allen Andren and others from the board of directors, and was the subject of indignant discussion among Dr. Cowles' friends at that time. The Times was conversant with the facts, but as he was not removed we let the matter drop.

The manner of bringing it about was one of the most cruel and ungentlemanly attacks possible to imagine. The medical staff was invited to a monthly meeting at Dr. Haddock's and after a social hour had been spent at the banquet table, Dr. Thomas J. Hayes arose and unrolling a formidable looking document, read a number of charges against Dr. Cowles' treatment of cases at the hospital, reflecting on his professional course there and his neglect to report certain acts of insubordination on the part of Miss Fisher, the matron.

Immediately following the reading of these charges, Dr. S. W. Torrey moved the suspension of the doctor from the staff. An indignant protest was at once raised by the other physicians, none of whom had any idea that the charges were to be preferred, and fair play was demanded.

Dr. Cowles, who had no previous intimation of the assault upon him, was thunderstruck and dumbfounded at the charges, and so indignant at the cold-blooded treatment he had received that he made but little reply, simply asking in justice to himself that he be given a chance to defend himself.

This was objected to by Dr. Torrey, who threatened to leave the meeting unless action was taken, but a majority had their way and it was decided to give Dr. Cowles an opportunity to explain the charges brought against him.

been forced from the medical staff of the Beverly hospital, and an institution supported at public expense, which was exclusive in the first place is made even more exclusive.

The forcing of Dr. Cowles from the privileges of the hospital is one of the most cold-blooded acts that has been recorded for some time.

The original trouble dates back to last summer previous to the resignation of Capt. Giddings, Alben Andren and others from the board of directors, and was the subject of indignant discussion among Dr. Cowles' friends at that time. The Times was conversant with the facts, but as he was not removed we let the matter drop.

The manner of bringing it about was one of the most cruel and ungentlemanly attacks possible to imagine. The medical staff was invited to a monthly meeting at Dr. Haddock's and after a social hour had been spent at the banquet table, Dr. Thomas J. Hayes arose and unrolling a formidable looking document, read a number of charges against Dr. Cowles' treatment of cases at the hospital, reflecting on his professional course there and his neglect to report certain acts of insubordination on the part of Miss Fisher, the matron.

Immediately following the reading of these charges, Dr. S. W. Torrey moved the suspension of the doctor from the staff. An indignant protest was at once raised by the other physicians, none of whom had any idea that the charges were to be preferred, and fair play was demanded.

Dr. Cowles, who had no previous intimidation of the assault upon him, was thunderstruck and dumbfounded at the charges, and so indignant at the cold-blooded treatment he had received that he made but little reply, simply asking in justice to himself that he be given a chance to defend himself.

This was objected to by Dr. Torrey, who threatened to leave the meeting unless action was taken, but a majority had their way and it was decided to give Dr. Cowles an opportunity to explain the charges brought against him.

A subsequent meeting was held, at which the doctor showed the foolishness of the charges against him, and a majority of the physicians agree that similar charges could be preferred against them, by any one looking for double, the only real difference being that in one particular case he stuck to his own theory of the treatment of a patient, instead of accepting the "recognized position of medicine" on it at that time, and insisted that should he have a similar case he would treat it the same.

The outcome of the meeting was that the staff declined to ask for his resignation through the directors, so the matter was dropped.

Shortly after this Dr. Hayes tendered his resignation, having previously refused to go on duty at the hospital the month following Dr. Cowles, as had been his custom, and Dr. Manchester volunteered to exchange places with him, and did so. This resignation of Dr. Hayes was never accepted, and personal letters were sent to him by members of the staff and others, asking him to withdraw it.

Thus the mat-month, until Hayes pulled tached to it, but he has monthly charges
So far as Dr. Cowles is concerned he continued to faithfully perform his duties at the hospital and the unpleasant incident of the charges was almost forgotten, when last month he received word from the board of directors asking him to tender his resignation in the "interests of harmony" with no further information and supposedly on account of the old charges of Dr. Hayes.

Rather than keep up a continual war fare and strife, the doctor acceded to their demands, and did so, the resignation taking effect on Feb. 1st.

What led to this action of the directors cannot be ascertained, for those who have been seen declined to talk, and referred the Times reporter to John W. Carter, president. Mr. Carter also refused to go into details, saying it was a matter the newspapers should let alone, it was no affair of the public, and as Dr. Cowles had tendered his resignation in the "interest of harmony" that was enough. Mr. Carter said further that probably the resignation would only be temporary and things would be fixed up satisfactory to all concerned.

Inquiry among the staff and the directors brings out the fact that Dr.
Cowles has been one of the most successful physicians in the hospital, and was the first to perform a certain operation which had never been attempted in the Beverly hospital before, and which was very successful. In fact, Dr. Cowles who has been assisted by Doctors Stickney and Manchester, has never lost a case on which he has operated, while of some others it might be said the reverse was the case.

Some are of the opinion that professional jealousies at the success of this young physician was more or less the cause for the desire for his removal. At any rate, all the unpleasantness that has followed, dates from this particular operation mentioned above.

So far as Dr. Cowles' patients whom he has treated at the hospital are concerned, they all speak in the highest terms of his work and many of them feel under deep and lasting obligations to him for his success in their cases, and are loud in their praises of him as a physician and a gentleman.

There were rumors that Miss Fisher, the matron of the hospital, had brought the matter before the directors and threatened to resign if Dr. Cowles was not removed, but this she denies, and declines to discuss the act of insubordination, in which it is alleged that she declined to administer a drug to a patient, which Dr. Cowles had ordered, and which he did not report, so she confessed it herself.

We have interviewed the physicians of the city in regard to the matter, and also looked up many things in connection with the hospital which we think will be interesting information to our readers, which will appear later in these columns. In the meantime we believe the people who are contributing each year to the support of this institution have a right to know the facts concerning it, and we tender our columns to the directors to make such explanation of their action in this case, and their stewardship of the hospital
as they see fit.

THE HOSPITAL.

Is the Institution Run for Private Gain or to Help the Poor?

Should the Poor of the City be Cared for Without Money or Without Price? What is the Beverly Hospital for if not to Help the Poor? If not a Charitable Institution It Should be Taxed.

Is the Beverly hospital run for private gain, or is it designed to help the poor?

Is the poor department of the city of Beverly authorized to pay the board of the city poor there, or should they be cared for there without money and without price?

The poor we have with us always, and if the present conditions continue we are liable to have a hospital supported by the city through its poor department, rather than through direct appropriations by the city council, and at the same time the city would have no control over it.

The auditor's books show that the poor department of the city began in 1897 to pay the board of the city poor, who were sick at the Beverly hospital. In that year the modest sum of $15.90 was paid for the board of "J," the full name not being given. Whether "J" was too modest to have his or her name recorded does not appear, or whether the committee on accounts was told, privately that "J" stood for Jones or a "joss" on the committee, is not clear either. But that they should approve a bill of that kind at all is what will astonish the tax payer when he gets the information.

In 1898 the hospital was paid $19.50 for Mildred Tatro. No doubt the patient needed care or she would not have been sent there, but why should the tax payers be asked to contribute to the support of this institution as a charitable one and then have assessed on their taxes the support of one of their poor, who of all others should have been admitted free.

In 1899 the overseers of the poor evidently decided to strike out in dead earnest and most of the sick of the city evidently were sent to the hospital with board at $6.00 a week. for the records show that there was paid the sum of $203.24, representing the board of eight patients in sums ranging from $5 to $47.

The indications are, that in 1900 the total may be much larger.

The assessors' books show that the Beverly hospital is valued as follows: Buildings, $4,000; land, $2,250; land area, 12,600 feet and exempt from taxation.

The question then is a pertinent one. In the first place why should the hospital charge board for the poor of the city at the rate of six dollars a week, when a physician can board his rich patient there for seven dollars and charge them such fees as he sees fit?

Then again if the poor can't find free treatment there, what are the citizens supporting the hospital for? Is it so the physicians of the city, of one particular school, can have a place, fitted with everything modern for their private practice at a normal sum?

Have the taxpayers no rights in the matter? Some of them do not believe in the hospital as managed at present, for if they do not believe in the "old school" of medicine they and their physician are barred out, and yet they are being taxed for the care of the poor of the city there. They have a right to object, and object vigorously.

Then again there is considerable of a question as to the wisdom of the overseers boarding the poor at the hospital when they have an institution of their own and hire the services of a superintendent and matron to take charge of it and the unfortunates whom the city has to aid, with such assistance as they need. At least that used to be the way, but in these days of fad for $18 a week trained nurses, we might expect to see the poor department hiring them to take care of the inmates who might be attacked with measles or whooping cough.

Usually when a piece of property in the city is exempt from taxation and is afterwards used to secure an income of any kind, the assessors immediately proceed to collect a revenue from it for the city treasury. This has been done where church property has been rented to the city as polling places or anything of that kind. Why shouldn't the hospital be put in the same class?

These are a few pertinent questions that the public have a right to consider and know about.

The Evening Times has not one word to say against the need of a public hospital in Beverly, for we believe such institutions are of great benefit to any community if rightly conducted, but when the institution poses as a charitable one and appeals annually to the citizens for support, and then refuses the poor of the city treatment except by their board being paid by the city, we believe it is not carrying out the idea the public have been led to believe was its object—a charitable institution.

IN FREEZING OUT CASE.

The Physicians on the Staff Have Opinions But Do Not Care to Express Them Publicly. Unfavorable Criticism of the Matron For Her Course Concerning the Drug Case.

The publication on Saturday by the Evening Times of the story of the "freezing out" of Dr. Cowles as a member of the staff of the Beverly hospital by the directors, was the subject of discussion everywhere Saturday night and Sunday, and already the Times has received many letters of thanks from the people who have contributed in the past to the support of the hospital, but who like to see fair play and whose sympathy has been aroused by the apparently uncalled for action of the directors in taking so radical a course without making an explanation to the people and still further refusing to do so when requested.

As stated in the Times Saturday, the different physicians on the staff were seen and talked very freely concerning the matter, but not for publication, as they don't care to enter into a controversy with the directors and those through whose influence the directors took the action they did, but we are free to say that a majority of them sympathize with Dr. Cowles and have privately expressed their opinion to that effect.

On the other hand, a number of the directors with whom we have talked have taken the ground that they were responsible to the corporation alone for the course they had taken, and not to the people who contribute annually for the support of the hospital, one going so far to say that the "most of the money was obtained from wealthy summer residents, through the influence of Dr. S. W. Torrey." Thus it would seem as if the small contributors who gives as the widow of old did her mite, doesn't count for much in the eyes of the directors. Another director when asked if "in the interest of harmony" in the request for the resignation of Dr. Cowles, meant the resignation of Doctors Torrey and Swan from the staff, said he hed no knowledge of any official notice to that effect and referred the writer to Mr. Carter, whom he said the directors had designated as spokesman.

There does seem to be a strong feeling of condemnation against the course pursued by the matron, Miss Fisher, in the case of her refusal to administer the drug to a patient as ordered by Dr. Cowles, as she directly violated the rules of the hospital, and because Dr. Cowles did not report this insubordination, he was open to criticism in the charges of Dr. Hayes. In fact there seems to be a mystery about this case anyway. Allowing that in her opinion the number of grains ordered by him was in excess of the ordinary been forced from the medical staff of the Beverly hospital, and an institution supported at public expense, which was exclusive in the first place is made even more exclusive.

The forcing of Dr. Cowles from the privileges of the hospital is one of the most cold-blooded acts that has been recorded for some time.

The original trouble dates back to last summer previous to the resignation of Capt. Giddings, Alben Andren and others from the board of directors, and was the subject of indignant discussion among Dr. Cowles' friends at that time. The Times was conversant with the facts, but as he was not removed we let the matter drop.

The manner of bringing it about was one of the most cruel and ungentlemanly attacks possible to imagine. The medical staff was invited to a monthly meeting at Dr. Haddock's and after a social hour had been spent at the banquet table, Dr. Thomas J. Hayes arose and unrolling a formidable looking document, read a number of charges against Dr. Cowles' treatment of cases at the hospital, reflecting on his professional course there and his neglect to report certain acts of insubordination on the part of Miss Fisher, the matron.

Immediately following the reading of these charges, Dr. S. W. Torrey moved the suspension of the doctor from the staff. An indignant protest was at once raised by the other physicians, none of whom had any idea that the charges were to be preferred, and fair play was demanded.

Dr. Cowles, who had no previous intimation of the assault upon him, was thunderstruck and dumbfounded at the charges, and so indignant at the cold-blooded treatment he had received that he made but little reply, simply asking in justice to himself that he be given a chance to defend himself.

This was objected to by Dr. Torrey, who threatened to leave the meeting unless action was taken, but a majority had their way and it was decided to give Dr. Cowles an opportunity to explain the charges brought against him.

A subsequent meeting was held, at which the doctor showed the foolishness of the charges against him, and a majority of the physicians agree that similar charges could be preferred against them, by any one looking for trouble, the only real difference being that in one particular case he stuck to his own theory of the treatment of a patient, instead of accepting the "recognized position of medicine" on it at that time, and insisted that should he have a similar case he would treat it the same.

The outcome of the meeting was that the staff declined to ask for his resignation through the directors, so the matter was dropped.

Shortly after this Dr. Hayes tendered his resignation, having previously refused to go on duty at the hospital the month following Dr. Cowles, as had been his custom, and Dr. Manchester volunteered to exchange places with him, and did so. This resignation of Dr. Hayes was never accepted, and personal letters were sent to him by members of the staff and others, asking him to withdraw it.

Thus the matter rested month after month, until a few weeks ago Dr. Hayes pulled the string that was attached to it, and it came back to him, but he has not as yet resumed his monthly charge in the hospital.

So far as Dr. Cowles was concerned he continued to faithfully perform his duties at the hospital and the unpleasant incident of the charges was almost forgotten, when last month he received word from the board of directors asking him to tender his resignation in the "interests of harmony" with no further information and supposedly on account of the old charges of Dr. Hayes.

Rather than keep up a continual warfare and strife, the doctor acceded to their demands, and did so, the resignation taking effect on Feb. 1st.

What led to this action of the directors cannot be ascertained, for those who have been seen declined to talk, and referred the Times reporter to John W. Carter, president. Mr. Carter also refused to go into details, saying it was a matter the newspapers should let alone, it was no affair of the public, and as Dr. Cowles had tendered his resignation in the "interest of harmony" that was enough. Mr. Carter said further that probably the resignation would only be temporary and things would be fixed up satisfactory to all concerned.

Inquiry among the staff and the directors brings out the fact that Dr. Cowles has been one of the most successful physicians in the hospital, and was the first to perform a certain operation which had never been attempted in the Beverly hospital before, and which was very successful. In fact, Dr. Cowles who has been assisted by Doctors Stickney and Manchester, has never lost a case on which he has operated, while of some others it might be said the reverse was the case.

Some are of the opinion that professional jealousies at the success of this young physician was more or less the cause for the desire for his removal. At any rate, all the unpleasantness that has followed, dates from this particular operation mentioned above.

So far as Dr. Cowles' patients whom he has treated at the hospital are concerned, they all speak in the highest terms of his work and many of them feel under deep and lasting obligations to him for his success in their cases, and are loud in their praises of him as a physician and a gentleman.

There were rumors that Miss Fisher, the matron of the hospital, had brought the matter before the directors and threatened to resign if Dr. Cowles was not removed, but this she denies, and declines to discuss the act of insubordination, in which it is alleged that she declined to administer a drug to a patient, which Dr. Cowles had ordered, and which he did not report, so she confessed it herself.

We have interviewed the physicians of the city in regard to the matter, and also looked up many things in connection with the hospital which we think will be interesting information to our readers, which will appear later in these columns. In the meantime we believe the people who are contributing each year to the support of this institution have a right to know the facts concerning it, and we tender our columns to the directors to make such explanation of their action in this case, and their stewardship of the hospital as they see fit.

In fact there seems to be a mystery about this case anyway. Allowing that in her opinion the number of grains ordered by him was in excess of the ordinary dose, why couldn't she have reached Dr. Cowles by telephone and explained her position to him and asked for further instructions? Then again after the Dr. learned that the drug had not been administered as he directed and did not care to make trouble for her by reporting her, why was she so anxious to make trouble for him by running to another physician and telling him of her act of insubordination? These are pertinent questions just now in the light of the request of the directors for Dr. Cowles' resignation "in the interest of harmony."

We believe the directors of the hospital owe an explanation to the public or an apology to Dr. Cowles and his restoration to the staff or both, and again we tender the columns of the Evening Times to them for that purpose.

DIRECTORS MAKE A STATEMENT.

They Contradict the Story that Resignations Were Due to Any Concerted Action.

Owing to the published statement reflecting upon the management of the Beverly Hospital it has been deemed wise by the undersigned to state for the benefit of the friends of the institution, that the Hospital has never been in a more flourishing condition than at present, thus continuing a record of good work done for the community and insuring its future success.

The resignations of the four members of the Board of Directors mentioned in published statement were for different causes and were not precipitated by any crisis, but occurred at intervals in the

DIRECTORS RESIGN.

FROM THE BEVERLY HOSPITAL.

President Edward L. Giddings, Clerk Alban Andren, Mrs. D. L. Pickman and Miss Anna L. Kilham Retire.

It will be a surprise to those of our citizens who have so generously contributed to the support of the Beverly Hospital to learn that the efficient president, Edward L. Giddings and the equally efficient clerk, Alban Andren, together with Mrs. Dudley L. Pickman and Miss Anna L. Kilham, two very efficient workers and contributors have resigned from the board of directors, for no specific reason that they are willing to give the public save the hackneyed one that "business engagements demand it."

In the resignation of Mr. Giddings the hospital loses not only a man of great influence in the community, but one who has taken a great interest in the success of the institution, and one who has been a liberal contributor, giving as he did $1,000 as the nucleus of the Charles L. Giddings' fund, and his name has been a great help to the hospital, financially.

It hardly needs be said that Alban Andren as director and clerk has been a most efficient worker and to his effort alone a large portion of the money raised for its maintenance in its early history was due, while all of the successful entertainments for raising money have been under his supervision. The many modern ideas of the hospital also originated with Mr. Andren.

The ladies who have resigned have also been much interested, Mrs. Pickman being particularly generous in her contributions, and through her efforts and those of Mr. Andren the attractive modern iron beds were substituted for the old wooden ones in the hospital when it was turned over to the corporation.

It is not for the TIMES to say that any reason except that as alleged was the cause of their resignations, but there have been rumors of intense strife among the directors and physicians for some time, and the TIMES has been put in information of some facts in regard to the management that would show that not only the directors but some of the physicians were getting weary of the dictates of one man, but we refrain from publishing them in this connection, as we do not care to say anything to the detriment of an institution which is a benefit to all citizens. But it certainly is the beginning of the end if the public confidence is shaken in the least degree.

BEVERLY HOSPITAL

FROM THE SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT1898 - 1899

"In August when so many of our sick soldiers were brought to the Boston hospitals, a letter was sent to the headquarters of the Massachusetts Aid Association, offering what little assistance we could render, and an answer was received thanking the directors for their prompt and generous offer. A short time afterwards, Frank Dutra, a member of our own Company E of the Eighth regiment, was cared for in our hospital for several weeks.

Easter Saturday the directors held their first open day, at which time the public were invited to visit the hospital, and thus avail themselves of the opportunity to become better acquainted with its work. Quite a large number of our citizens visited the hospital on that day and were shown over the building. The directors and nurses were in attendance, and many things of interest in the sterilizing and operating rooms were explained. Many of the callers brought gifts of clothing, groceries, preserves, etc., and a very gratifying sum of money was left in the "Offering" box.

In October, forty self-sacrificing women, armed with the hospital annual report and a pleading circular, called upon all the families of the city, asking aid to meet the current expenses of the hospital. The treasurer's books will give the result. And we here take this opportunity to heartily thank our friends for their prompt response to these calls, and also for their many kind words expressive of their appreciation of the great benefit our hospital is to the city."

First Hospital Day !

CHARLES A. WOODBERRY

President, Beverly Hospital Board of Directors

1904 - 1910

From a Memorial Address by E. J. V. Huiginn, on the evening of September 28, 1914:

"It would seem as if I had said enough. But how can I forget his work for the Hospital - - -

It is not well-known enough that no man in Beverly did so much to secure the benefits of a well-equipped Hospital for the people not only of this city, but of the neighboring towns, as Charles Woodberry. From the time when the present-day Nestor of our physicians and surgeons opened a Hospital on lower Cabot Street, there was no one more eager to help in all ways than our friend.
He continued his interest to the last of his days. He gave of his substance when he had substance to give. He secured large sums of money in times of difficulty to enable the Hospital to continue its work. He thought of it, he prayed for it, he worked for it. He visited over fifty other hospitals to study their systems; he consulted scores and scores of physicians, surgeons, nurses, superintendents, directors, and others familiar with hospital work, to get the fruits of their experience for the benefit of the Beverly Hospital.
- He interested wealthy people to become benefactors and active helpers; he visited the Hospital, hundreds, yes, I think, thousands of times, and his visits were to patients and nurses, as well as to the superintendent. He smoothed things over; he made allowances for diversities of tempers and capabilities and persuaded others to do so. I know whereof I speak, for from my first acquaintance with him, now almost twenty years ago, he talked to me about his ambitions for the Hospital, and often in his perplexity came to relieve his mind by a confidential talk. He took it for granted that I was interested in all sick people, and he felt safe in asking for any assistance I might be able to give him.

I very distinctly remember the day he came to me and we spoke of the need of fireproofing the old hospital building on Central Street. He wished to embody in his annual report as President of the Board of Directors a request for $8,000 to repair and fire-proof the old building. I advised him not to do so. I told him that instead of asking for $8,000 to fire-proof that very inadequate building, he should forthwith request the Directors and all concerned to take steps to build an up-to-date hospital in some suitable place. He took this view of the matter and asked for a new hospital. His request, to his great pleasure and surprise, was acted upon almost immediately, and steps were taken to build and equip the sightly hospital which has been such a blessing to so many, and will be to many for all the days to come. We know it was not all plain sailing for Charles Woodberry, but I feel confident that Justice in its fulness will be accorded to him, and that when men -- if ever they think it worth while -- speak the whole truth, Beverly will realize its debt to this quiet-mannered man."

PLACE LOOKED LIKE AN ENCHANTED GARDEN SO PRETTY THE DECORATIVE EFFECT

Conservative Estimate Places Net Receipts At $600. Many New Features

Beautiful by nature and made doubly beautiful by the artistic taste and deft fingers of the many friends of the Beverly hospital the spacious and beautiful lawn of Mrs. W. C. Boyden with a frontage on both Washington and Thorndike streets presented a most attractive appearance yesterday afternoon and evening on the occasion of the lawn party and fete given in aid of the Beverly hospital.

Incandescent lights strung in festoons from the branches of beautiful trees or sprinkled amid the foliage lent attractiveness to nature's handiwork while Japanese lanterns in festoons strung across the lawn added much to the beautiful picture.

The merchants of the city in many ways very kindly assisted the committee in their work of decoration, the Lee Electric Co. and the Almy Bigelow & Washburn company being especially active in the work.

At the opening hour Tuesday afternoon, the gateways on either street were blocked with patrons ready to enter, and from that time until 10 o'clock in the evening the fete was on in good earnest.

Approaching from the Washington street entrance the first stand is the automobile ticket stand. This was one of the most patronized tables on the whole place. There were two kinds of tickets a ten cent ride and a twenty-five cent trip, and "Seeing Beverly" was just the proper thing,

The ten cent ride took no patron down Cabot, Central by the Hospital, to Lathrop, Hale, Ober to Neptune and home through Hale street. The twenty-five cent trip was in addition to the above a continuation to Chapman's corner, through Boyle street to Paradise Crossing, to Common down to Pride's Crossing and return.

The following persons loaned their automobiles for the occasion:

Col. W. D. Sohler, Bryce J. Allan, William Endicott, Jr., Chas. Tyler, Francis I. Amory, John F. Davey, Ernest F. Bell, Colcord Upton, F. W. Herrick, J. R. Spencer, F. H. Prince, John Linehan, Dr. Clarence O. Hood, Dr. C. Boardman Burnham, W. L. Wood, F. R. Harper, Chas. I. Spaulding, M. E. South, H. M. St. Clair, Dr. P. P. Johnson, Francis Cotting, Mrs. J. W. Lefavour, Dudley L. Pickman, C. H. Henderson and Louis P. Baker.

The second table which was most attractive and well patronized was the lemonade and punch table, where a rushing business was carried on.

The cake table opposite was also well patronized and the choice specimens of the culinary art found there met with a ready sale.

Next came the fortune teller's booth where many a secret was told to the inquisitive or the curious.

On the opposite side of the lawn was the ice cream table. Here were a host of women who had their hands full all the time in dispensing the cooling treat. "Ye old town pump" was a place which was surrounded all the time for as the cooling stream from its prototype appeased the thirst of man and beast, so did this appease the curiosity of those who put their money down and lifting the handle of the pump took out its equivalent in some useful or ornamental article.

The Punch and Judy show was of interest to the children and many a child of a larger growth stopped for a while to be entertained there.

The music stand was prettily situated about midway between the two streets and in the afternoon a choice program was rendered by the high school mandolin club, and in the evening by the Beverly Cadet band, both of which were thoroughly enjoyed and much appreciated.

A prettily set table where tea and sandwiches were served, particularly appealed to the ladies in the afternoon, and in the evening also business was good there.

Another booth, this one surmounted by the electric cross and covered with incandescents, which shone through the covering producing that weird effect which is so in keeping with palmistry, is centrally located and here Madame Rose told many startling facts to the large number of patrons.

The flower table and the candy table both exceedingly attractive completed the lay out which was most attractive.

In the evening when the lights were turned on the effect was magnificent. The lawn looked like an enchanted garden. The bright red cross surmounting the pagoda, stood out in sharp contrast to the white covering of the tent, and the 850 incandescents of different colors scattered through the trees or strung in festoons, made the finish of a picture such as is seldom seen. Then two the snowy white covering of the tables, with the white dresses of the attendants made the place doubly attractive.

Crowds lined Thorndike and Washington streets and there was a great rush when the doors were opened. Trade was good at all stations on the lawn and "sold out" was the cry early in the evening.

The affair was an unqualified success and reflects much credit on the efficient committees in charge.

The following were the committees in charge:

NOTES FROM THE FETE.

It is estimated that the net receipts from the lawn party will reach $600 or more.

Major Bishop sold a handsome chair at auction, the lucky purchaser being J. N. Burton, a member of the Beverly Cadet band who secured it for $5.50 after some spirited bidding.

Twenty-seven gallons of ice cream were sold at the ice cream table and more could have easily been disposed of.

There were no serious mishaps on the auto runs, barring one or two punctured tires, everything went along all right.

The electrical effects were fine and attracted much favorable comment.

The "Seeing Beverly" by automobile was a happy conception, gave a lot of pleasure to the people and netted $131.

An ideal spot for a lawn party was the remark of many who attended.

Three thousand people is the estimate of attendance in the afternoon and evening.

There were 50 electric lights in the cross, 175 on the fortune teller's booth and 850 in all.

There were but six members in the high school mandolin club, Misses Beth Martin, Grace Perry, Mary Appleton, Ruth Preston, Eva Bradstreet and Chester Wilson, with Miss Nettie C. Morgan, pianist, but they gave a most pleasing program.

Alderman A. B. Woodbury, city gardener, Henry E. Dodge, assistant scaler of weights and measures, C. H. Bailey and inspector of plumbing F. W. Herrick were noticed in one of the autos yesterday afternoon.

Madame Rose's tent was one of the best patronized places on the lawn.

It was an ideal spot for a lawn party, centrally located and attractive in itself.

The finest thing of its kind ever held in Beverly was the general verdict.

Too much credit cannot be given the Beverly Cadet band for their part in this affair. The band through their leader Mr. Grush constituted themselves into an active portion of the committee of arrangements, they sent out invitations to musicians in every direction to assist in this popular movement and as a result a mammoth band seated themselves at 7.30 o'clock and discoursed an excellent program of the very latest music to the delight of everybody. It is doubtful if this band ever made a more decided hit than that of last night.

LAWN PARTY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Over $1,000 Will be Netted For the Beverly Hospital. Automobile Riding Was a Feature of the Event. Beautiful Electrical Display. Boyden Lawn a Pretty Scene

Five thousand people attended the annual hospital lawn party which was held on the Boyden estate yesterday afternoon and evening and proved one of the brightest events of the summer season.

For weeks various committees have been interested in planning for the fair in aid of Beverly's deserving institution and yesterday witnessed the culmination of these efforts. The velvety lawn running through from Washington to Thorndike street was dotted with booths and tents and there were attractions galore to win the shakels from the patrons.

One big feature was the automobile brigade where thirty machines, big and little, imported and domestic, established a passenger service for the afternoon and evening and took passengers up and down the shore and into the country, this service alone netting the hospital nearly $300.

It was an interesting sight to watch the scramble for seats in the big palace cars during the afternoon and evening and many enjoyed a spin in the big high powered machines for the first time in their lives and some were so delighted that they repeated the trip two and three times. One woman, silver haired and past the three score milestone in life's journey, made trips in four different automobiles, and her only regret was that the plan was not kept up every afternoon for as she said: "Those men made the automobiles go so fast that I was scared at first, but I was soon over that and I kept wishing they would go faster. I liked the rides and wish I could go every day."

The following furnished automobiles: J. C. Phillips, Guy Norman, John H. Linehan, E. S. Webster, W. E. Thomas, Frederick Ayer, F. A. Nagle, Walter A. Perry, A. S. Hoogs, John Manning, Dr. H. F. Sears, Geo. H. Bood, D. L. Pickman, L. A. Cosgrain, W. A. Slater, John F. Davey, Harry M. St. Clair, Geo. S. Mandell, J. Elmer Wood, Dr. C. B. Burnham, Dr. C. O. Hood, S. R. Dexter, A. C. Steneer, William A. Lynch and C. H. Tyler, Frank B. Bennis.

Automobile row was established on Thorndike street and if there was a crush in the afternoon there was a jam in the evening. The air was thick with the "chug chuges" and the horns on the machines gave an auto chorus so weird in its general affect that it made a big hit with the crowd. From Washington street there blazed "Welcome" in glowing incandescents. There were tents and booths all over the estate where fair Beverly maids and matrons presided and sold a variety of things to the crowd which was liberal in its purchases. There were cake tables, tea tables, candy, lemonade and ice cream tables and "Ye olde towne pump," where one could have a chance to pump out a prize. This feature also proved a big money maker.

There was a real fortune teller in Madame Jenoe, who is located for the summer at the Willows, and many Beverly maidens paid their silver for the gifted woman to tell them of what the future had in store.

The evening was like a scene from fairyland. There were thousands of incandescents in various colors and these diffused a glow which made the picture one of rare beauty. There were hundreds of girls there, most of them in white dresses and the sight was one of indescribable charm but seldom witnessed.

The complete electrical arrangements were from the Lee Electric company and were donated by them for the occasion. The lighting scheme was designed by Manager Joseph W. Lee and Walter H. Hill of this firm.

The decorations for the tables and the fortune telling tents as well as the flags were loaned for the lawn party by Manager H. F. Gouch of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn's Beverly store. Percy B. Norwood and Charles P. Tindley had charge of the dance pavilion, which attracted many, and a volunteer orchestra under the direction of Ernest Preston, furnished music for the devotees of the pleasant pastime.

The Beverly Cadet band gave a stirring program of popular music during the evening and the offering was well received by the thousands in attendance. It was long after ten o'clock before the lights were finally switched off and the people wended their way home, after making the hospital lawn party one of the most successful events, social as well as financial, ever held in Beverly and one which will net the Beverly hospital over $1000.

The tilting machine built by Peter Hoogerzeil of this city was an attractive place for the children and one of the prettiest and most attractive tables was the flower table.

The party was under the direction of these committees and to their efforts is largely due the splendid success of the affair:

BOUGHT SITE FOR A NEW HOSPITAL

September 12, 1906

Directors of Beverly Institution Have Secured 11 Acres of Land on Corner of Herrick and Heather Streets. Beautiful Location; Work to be Commenced at Once

Papers have been passed transferring from Henry W. Peabody to the Beverly hospital corporation, eleven acres of land on Heather and Herrick streets which will be used as a site for the new $100,000 hospital.

For some time the directors of the hospital have been working along the lines of acquiring a site which would be in a desirable location and still away from the noise of the city. Several locations were looked over and after the subject had been thoroughly considered the Herrick street site, which for many years was owned by the B. W. Standley estate, was accepted and the papers for the final transfer were made today.

The location gives a southwest exposure to the proposed location of the hospital which will be on the brow of a hill commanding a picturesque view of Bass river and that beautiful stretch of territory which lies about North Beverly and as far away as Brown's Folly hill at Danvers. The land site contains enough territory for a development of a scheme of landscape work which will offer a superb setting for the hospital. It is planned to begin work on the new hospital at once and plans are already being considered for the grading of the land and for the hospital building which will embrace the latest ideas and will be equalled by the hospitals of few municipalities in the state.

Beverly people, especially the summer colonists, have always maintained an active interest in the work of the hospital and the number of subscriptions which have been received for the building fund tells of the active interest manifested and gives encouragement to the members of the board of directors, who have labored long and well for the consummation of their plans for a new hospital, a hospital which would do credit to the people of Beverly and the city as well and continue as it has been, one of the most deserving institutions in the city.

AN APPEAL.

The directors of the Beverly Hospital have decided to raise funds for the ensuing year by a house to house canvass. This will be careful and thorough so that each individual citizen will have an opportunity to give. It cannot be said too strongly that every very small sum is a help.

An Englishman recently travelled through New England noting carefully and intelligently those features of our life that were new to him and he remarked with astonishment, that in every town of any considerable size there was to be found a public hospital. Some of these are endowed; most of them are supported by the individual small gifts that come from those whose fortunes are small, but whose zeal to "lend a helping hand" is large; whose subscriptions express self-denial and the best kind of thoughtfulness for the welfare of the sick and unfortunate.

Hospitals that are endowed are fortunate of course; their officials have less to worry about if the treasury is always full; but the hospital that depends for its life upon subscriptions is a moral force that leads to individual unselfishness and the best sort of communism, a perennial evidence of civic "sweetness and light."

It ought to be the proud privilege of each one of us to be able to say, out of our abundance or out of our meagerness: "I am doing my share to support the Beverly Hospital." That you will show your appreciation of this privilege we trust will be apparent in your subscription when the canvasser calls upon you for it.

S. E. TRASK,

Secretary of Board of Directors.

BEVERLY SAM SAM A GRAND SUCCESS.

Collection of Freaks at Side Show Proves Hit of Afternoon, Dividing Honors With Ball Game and Entertainments for Children.

DR SEARS AND SOME OF HIS FREAKS -

— SOME OF THE BARKER'S —

BEVERLY, Sept 18—The Sam Sam held here today in aid of the hospital was a great success. The public schools, stores and a number of the factories closed their doors.

It was attended by 6000 people, who appeared on the grounds all wearing a Sam Sam button, which took the place of tickets. The button in the center contained a large red cross and the words "Sam Sam, Beverly Hospital, Sept 18"

Special cars were run to the grounds, the fares taken being turned over to the Sam Sam committee as the Boston & Northern railroad donation.

The field was covered with tables in charge of young women, containing refreshments and useful and fancy articles. Those in charge were kept busy and at the close everything was sold and a handsome sum will be turned in to the hospital fund.

The following were the chairmen of the different tables: Lunch table No. 1, Mrs John W. Carter, Mrs Austin Whitcomb; lunch table No. 2, Miss E. D. Howe, Miss L. B. Kilham; lunch table No. 3, Mrs J. A. Shatswell, Miss Alice Smith; lunch table Beverly Farms, Miss Mary D. Connolly, Miss Ella Lowe; grab bag No. 1, Mrs John Patch; grab bag No. 2, Miss Attila Fraser; Miss Mabel Kilham; old town pump, Mrs A.

C. Lunt, Mrs Ralph Standley; North Beverly, Mrs William Stopford, Mrs Edward Herrick; candy, Miss Augustus Woodbury, Miss Eleanor Brown; Red Cross, Miss Gertrude Fraser and Elsie Woodbury. The basket-ball booth was in charge of Dr Boardman C. Burnham, and the balloon booth was in charge of L. T. Webber. Prince Ober and Roy Walker were in charge of the shooting gallery.

One of the features of the day was the automobile riding, and 25 autos were kept busy carrying passengers during the afternoon. The tickets were 25 cents each and the buyers were driven through the city, down the North shore and back to the grounds. There was a donkey cart on the field which was put to good use and little children enjoyed riding about the grounds. This was in charge of Miss Anna Connolly, who was dressed in a hurdy gurdy costume.

The little red schoolhouse, in charge of Melville Woodbury, attracted considerable attention, and the young boys delighted in throwing balls, breaking the windows in the building winning a prize. During the afternoon the United shoe machinery band furnished the concert.

The principal attraction of the afternoon was the side show, where Dr Harry E. Sears with his collection of freaks made the people laugh from the minute they entered the tent until they left. Dr John J. Martin was the "barker" and sold tickets to the crowd as fast as he could hand them out. Dr W. G. Stickney was the ticket taker and had no spare moments to tell stories. On the stage inside were Orpheus Woodbury, the living skeleton; Reginald Johnson, Battle-Nose Pete; Fred Rulo, Laluma, the snake charmer; Joseph Robertson, Bobby Plumbino, the tattooed man; John Smith, the blue-bearded Persian; Roland Cook, the bearded lady; Charles Cook, the Circassian lady; Warren Bulkeley, the fat boy.

The first event of the afternoon was the ball game between the business men of Beverly and Salem. The game ended in favor of the Beverly team by a score of 12 to 2. The lineup was as follows:

Beverly—W. A. Caldwell p, R. D. Standley c, R. Robertson 1b, C. W. Trask 2b, H. B. Billings 3b, J. J. Heaphy ss, E. F. Bell lf, S. D. Edwards cf, H. E. Tarr rf.

Salem—H. S. Porter p, H. B. Wheeler c, L. J. Day 1b, R. R. Morton 2b, F. W. Wade ss, J. Colby 3b, J. Sullivan cf, E. Burland rf, Edwards lf.

The Commercial club won in the interclub events with 19 points, the Republican club 14 points and the Union club 11 points. The proceeds of the affair will be added to the building fund of the new hospital which is being erected on Herrick st, and when finished it will be one of the finest institutions in the state. In the neighborhood of $4000 will be realized.
